

Barry Weinbaum assumed the role of President & CEO of NanoOpto Corporation in August 2001 after a 21-year career at Lucent Technologies and AT&T, where his most recent position was as Vice President - Optical Long Haul Solutions (DWDM), Lucent's largest optical systems business. At Lucent/AT&T, his background in optics, enterprise communications, networking, wireless and voice processing helped Mr. Weinbaum establish a record of leading start-up, established and turn-around operations to market leadership in a variety of product and technology areas. Career Highlights include: Director of Lucent's Mergers and Acquisition team for the Optical Networking Group (1999-2000), General Manager – Enterprise Wireless PBX communications (1995-1999), General Manager: Voice Response (1991-1995). Mr. Weinbaum was a pioneer of the Computer Telephony business (1990-1991) which helped lead to many of the Call Center and CRM applications of today. Mr. Weinbaum started his career as a Bell Laboratories engineer and holds two patents. He earned a B.S. in Computer Science and Mathematics from Union College in Schenectady, NY, and a M.S. in Computer Science from Columbia University. Since joining NanoOpto, Mr. Weinbaum has been an oft invited speaker at many nanotechnology, optical and venture conferences including: IBF's Nanotechnology Investing Forum – 2003-2005, NanoEquity Europe 2005, VentureWire's Network Outlook 2004 Conference, NanoBusiness 2002-2005, the 2004 Red Herring Top 100, and at VentureOne's Exchange and Summit conferences. He has also been a presenter at Supercomm, Comnet, Network+Interop and CTIA Wireless.